

PLAYERS CLUB PRODUCTION "GRANITE" OPENS TONIGHT

STUDENTS' COUNCIL TAKES ACTION ON NISEI QUESTION

Petition Asking Non-implementation Of Bill 15 Will Be Sent to Ottawa To Proper Government Authorities

Students Are Asked to Sign If Action Is Felt Justifiable

Definite action has been taken by the Students Executive Council with regard to the national problem presented by the Japanese-Canadians and the proposed governmental action to deport all those who signed the Japanese inspired statement saying that they wished to return to Japan. A petition to the government is to be circulated among students for their signatures, if they are in agreement with the views.

Power to deport Canadian citizens in this way arises out of Bill 15, which is in the process of being passed. Too late now to prevent the bill from becoming law, it is still possible to petition the Government not to use its new powers in carrying out its proposed plans for the deportation of Japanese Canadians.

The petition was drafted by a special committee of the Students' Council last night. This was the continuation of the meeting held on Wednesday night.

Wordings of the petition is as follows:

Whereas the Government is planning to set up a quasi-judicial committee to investigate the loyalty of Japanese-Canadians.

Whereas we feel that such investigation is unnecessary because Canadians of Japanese origin have proven themselves to be loyal to this country.

Whereas we have ascertained to the best of our ability that these facts are so,

Therefore we students at McGill University who have signed the foregoing petition urge the Canadian Government to take action to prevent the deportation of loyal Japanese-Canadians, and grant them full rights of their citizenship.

The petition will be forwarded to competent Government authorities, in an effort to impress them with the feeling prevalent among the students at McGill who have signed this petition, and pressing for appropriate action by the Government.

The Council urges all students to consider this question with due care, and to sign the petition if they feel such an action to be justified.

General Assembly Will Discuss NFCUS Reports

Pre-Conference Meet To Hear Tabling Of Committee Findings

A general assembly of all McGill students has been called to attend the tabling of the reports of the four N.F.C.U.S. conference committees in the Union Ballroom on Monday evening, December 17.

These committees have been meeting regularly for the past few weeks and at this assembly McGill students will have an opportunity to hear and discuss their reports.

In a special statement to the McGill Daily, Mel Shiffman, Vice-Chairman of the McGill N.F.C.U.S. committee, stated that this pre-conference assembly is unique in the history of the N.F.C.U.S.

"For the first time students other than official delegates have had an opportunity of discussing the work of the N.F.C.U.S. and of helping formulate reports that can be used by our delegates at the national conference. All students interested in building a strong, democratic and fully representative national student organization should turn out on Monday night and participate in the final drafting of the reports."

The N.F.C.U.S. organizing committee of the Students' Executive Council calls upon all campus clubs and societies to urge their members to attend Monday night's rally and thus ensure a well attended and representative turn-out.

Students who attend the rally will also have an opportunity to elect three additional delegates to the Christmas N.F.C.U.S. National Conference.

These three delegates will assist Jack Pye in the work of the conference which is to take place at McGill on December 28, 29, 30.

In this, the initial social event planned by the entertainment committee, McGill ex-servicemen and women will be afforded an opportunity of meeting each other on a social basis. The committee is very anxious that vets shall get to know each other, and hopes for a big turnout.

All male and female vets are urged to attend, and, for very obvious reasons, as the male vets are permitted to bring non-vet companions. "This is the first opportunity for members of the Veterans' Society to get together at a party," said the head of the committee, "and we expect to have many more, if this one goes off well."

IN PLAYERS' CLUB PRODUCTION

ARTHUR BIRD as "the man" and AVRIL KEILLER as Judith in the Players' Club production of Clemence Dane's "Granite."

Final Touches Added, Scene Set Curtain to Rise at 8.30 Tonight

The last rehearsal has been held, the sets have been constructed, the costumes are finished and the cast are practically waiting for the curtain to go up. Almost five weeks of work and rehearsals will lie behind the curtain when it rises tonight at 8.30.

With the beginning of this term, Michael Sadlier, veteran of the RCAF and experienced English repertory and film actor, took over the direction of the Players' Club production, Clemence Dane's "Granite." This production was cast early in the term and in it reappears both Avril Keiller and David MacCallan who are veteran members of Players' Club production.

ions together with Arthur Bird who is a newcomer to the group.

This play is a departure from the usual Players' Club policy of presenting light comedy, or university farce, as "Granite" is a drama, pure and simple, depending on its impact of emotional portrayal of basic drives.

In spite of the dramatic portent of this year's play the scenery fell down during construction as usual. The same amount of cursing per hammer poured forth in the sacrosanct upper reaches of the Union's attic and the same fervid oaths of "By God Hericlitus never no more!" rang forth from the stage carpenters, but rehearsals go on as usual and the play opens tonight.

Attention Dawson Students

Report on the Bowling Alleys and Snack Bar

You have all been wondering why we have not yet opened the snack bar and the bowling alleys. Many of you have criticized not knowing what was going on; so here are a few facts:

- 1) The alleys which were in very poor condition had to be sanded and waxed.
- 2) New balls were ordered from the United States a month ago. Although we have definite notice they are on the way, we have not as yet received them.
- 3) Repairs to the snack bar were necessary. Equipment had to be installed. The doors badly damaged by some curious individuals, required repair. And, by the way, will those super-muscled individuals please note that the gymnasium can supply any weight lifting equipment necessary; so now that you know, please leave these doors alone.
- 4) Bulbs, sockets, reflectors which had been removed by some other unscrupulous characters had to be replaced.

So friends if you want your ice cream or your game of bowling please take it easy and give us a chance.

Anyway things are shaping up and the snack bar will be opened Friday, 14th of Dec., at 6 p.m. Sundaes (Caramel, chocolate, marshmallow, etc...) will be on sale. As we get organized, milk shakes, ice cream sodas, coffee, toast, etc... will appear on the menu.

Once the balls arrive, bowling alleys will run at 10c per man per string. Players are requested to observe the alley regulations.

Bowling teams will be organized after Xmas by Mr. J. Harvie. We are trying to make a success of this and we need your cooperation; so if you want to be agreeably served return your glasses and cups to the bar when you are finished and keep the place tidy.

By helping us you are only helping yourselves.

The committee: S. J. Guillon (president), J. Stinson (secretary treasurer), J. Fox (maintenance), J. Harvie (pin boys and team organizer).

Michael Sadlier Directs Years First Undertaking Held in Moyse Hall

Tragedy by Clemence Dane Pictures Life on Lundy Island

DAVID MacCALLAN, who plays the part of Prosper in "Granite."

The McGill Players' Club will stage "Granite," by Clemence Dane tonight at 8.30 in Moyse Hall. This will be the Players' Club's first production of the session and is directed by Michael Sadlier. The cast includes Avril Keiller, Arts 4; Arthur Bird, Arts 2; David MacCallan, B.Sc. 3-4; John Drechsler, Arts 2; Rosemary Palin, Arts 1; and John Monk, Arts 2.

The Players' Club, one of the oldest clubs on the campus, has been producing plays for the last quarter-century and has brought before the students a number of excellent plays. "Granite" concerns the lives of five people on the island of Lundy, off the coast of England, some time in the last century. First there is Judith (Avril Keiller), described as a "strong woman" who is living on Lundy with her husband Jordan Morris (John Drechsler). They live by salvaging the wreckage of ships that run up on the rocks off the island. There enters a man who has been wrecked who begs for food and shelter and is received cordially by Judith who makes him her slave. "The Man" as he is called in the play is played by Arthur Bird, Arts 2. Prosper, Jordan's half-brother (David MacCallan) visits the island and subsequently falls in love with Judith. Complications set in concerning all including Judith's servant, Penny (Rosemary Palin); Prosper and Judith are married, a murder occurs and the play ends with a dramatic "punch." The minister who performs the marriage ceremony is played by John Monk. "Granite" is considered by Clemence Dane as one of her best plays if not her best. She has written such well-known productions as "Bill of Divorcement" which has been filmed in three different occasions, "Will Shakespeare" and, after several years' retirement has returned to the theatrical limelight by writing the script for Alexander Korda's "Perfect Strangers," starring Robert Donat and Deborah Kerr which had its world premiere in New York recently.

Tickets for "Granite" may be obtained in the Arts Building, in the Tuck Shop in the Union or from the following students, Arts and Science: David Parsons, Engineering; Neil Lau; R.V.C.; Mary Leith; Strathcona Hall, Mary Hummel.

Dawson College Variety Show Unveiled Tonight

Free For All; Begins at Seven, Held in Theatre

By KEN HARRISON

A variety show making its appearance at Dawson College Theatre at 7 tonight will feature such extraordinary artists as Professor Chamatoff, the "Professor of Baloney from Sausage College," who is a performer "par excellence" of the wooden instrument known to connoisseurs by the name of xylophone, and Jean D'Art Charlevoix, human imitator of musical instruments.

Another professor, Joe Kara, versatile beyond the scope of mere mundane professors, eats fire and blows smoke from his ears. This performer is billed as a headline act wherever he goes.

"This is really going to be a great show, and everyone should turn out to see it," stated Jim Harris, chairman of the Dawson Speakers Bureau.

The show is free, and has been arranged through the generosity of Max Burnfield, B.A., B.C.L., who has been arranging shows for the soldiers during the war.

Lasting for one solid hour, the show will be broadcast over the P.A. system which, according to reports, is "geared for listening pleasure."

After playing at Dawson, the troupe will catch an early train for Montreal, where they will also play tonight.

Dawsigns Open Studio In the South Wing

St. Johns, Que., December 13.—(Special to The Daily)—"Dawsigns" the Students' Council's publicity and advertising shows for the year has opened up its studio at the south wing of the administration building which will be taken over by the Council.

This voluntary group of eight persons was first organized by Jack Abugov during the election campaign in October, when posters were seen everywhere—even hanging from the rafters in the dining hall.

Now Dawsigns, which does work for the Students' Council and the Red and White Society only, puts out posters concerning dances, games, talks, shows, and other activities. The group's work includes the painted scroll design on the notice board of the Students' Council.

The Situation Today

The decisions which the Students' Council took on Wednesday night in connection with the Japanese-Canadian questions are well worthy of careful attention from the student body. As most of us know, enquiries sent by the Council to some of Canada's leading political figures led to no concrete conclusions. The Council then took up the matter from a different angle, and appointed a committee to supply the much needed information and background on the government's plan to deport Japanese-Canadians.

At Wednesday's meeting this information was made available to the Council. The committee's report was based on several sources. One of the most important factors in ascertaining the true state of affairs was of course the Hansard report of parliamentary proceedings. Six issues of this handbook were particularly helpful to the committee. The first of these dated back to February 17, 1938, when Mr. Howard Green, a Member of Parliament from British Columbia and adhering to the then Conservative party, made a long statement calling for a clear policy from the government in matters pertaining to Japanese immigration into Canada. Mr. Green stated that British Columbia particularly was faced with the problem, as most of the immigrants settled in that province and never penetrated further East. He also asserted that these immigrants did not intermarry with whites and thus created what he called a "state within a state" in Canada.

As an edition of Hansard dated February 17, 1943 shows, Mr. Green continued to urge action from the government along these lines for some time, and again in June 30, 1943, beginning on page 24 of Hansard, he pointed to the inevitable deadlock that would arise out of the arrangements which had been made for the dispersal of the Japanese, owing to the agreements with the provinces that Japanese would be removed at the conclusion of the war should the provinces so desire. This in respect to the 25 per cent. of the Japanese who had been removed from British Columbia, while 75 per cent. who had remained in B.C., but out of the 100 mile "protected area", would still be allowed to live in that province. Thus, at the conclusion of hostilities, it could be expected from present arrangements that the Japanese would once again concentrate in the western province, and Mr. Green cautioned that the people of B.C. would take definite steps to prevent this, unless some action were taken by the government to prevent such a status.

Mackenzie King's first statement of government policy proceeding out of the previous discussions by members of parliament, appears in the August 4 edition of Hansard on pages 6052 ff. "In the first place," he states, "it recognizes the concern felt by British Columbia at the possibility of once again having within its borders virtually the entire Japanese population of Canada." "Secondly account should be taken of the fact that for the most part the people of Japanese race in the country have remained loyal . . .", and from this he develops the principle that the "government is of the view that the persons of the Japanese race, whether Japanese nationals or British subjects by naturalization or birth, who have shown disloyalty to Canada during the war, should not have the privilege of remaining in Canada after the struggle is terminated." "Thirdly . . . immigration of Japanese into this country should not be allowed after the war . . . but . . . no declaration of this type can or should be attempted which would be binding indefinitely into the future."

Finally, the Prime Minister summed up, "we cannot do less than treat such persons fairly and justly"; the persons referred to being loyal Japanese in Canada. On these principles then, the policy of the government towards the loyal Japanese is to be based.

TO BEAUTY
—by Andre Tetrault

I have wandered 'way on weary hours
Into a timeless thought and empire emptiness,
Lost in lurid lands of unknown powers,
Beyond belief in spider space and loneliness.

An ageless spirit walk I on and on
Straying as the trillion souls in infinity,
And finding nothing with the sun that shone
'Til pining penitence opens a path of pity.

Once did a gleam of glory pierce the gloom
In sanctimonious awe of dedication;
Sabred sense melted down the middle doom
And pray'r's portaled paths of single destination.

Swirling sights of unsurpassing splendour
Sadden sensuous sounds that intertwine and wind
And madden many with love so tender,
And magnify the mellow murmurs of a mind.

An eerie eye of invitation glows
With potent passion arms that flee in fantasy,
Abyss drums of hollow, empty echoes
That fiery fingers thump and throb with ecstasy.

Wild colour schemes that master mad desires
And whirlwind waves of ardour spin in airless space,
Below are blazing peaks of sinners pyres,
Above the pale and penitent of human race.

The weightless walls and winding ways are here
To break the backs of time and spineless travellers
That struggle in infinity, and fear
Warrior women waiting for their spectral saviours.

Now pond'rous pale mists of mystic perfume
Settle some with sleep so sweet in this new nation,
'Til sunless dawn swings wide its op'ning bloom
To a gleaming temple of imagination.

The tow'ring door is made of wood so thin
Massive men may pass across its endless entrance
Into circular sight, they find within
A giant throne and carpet miles of grand guidance.

Across a sleep that I will never span
A flaming maiden stands in black beauty, blending
Wild harmonious ways in mirror man,
Searching sinuous mazes forever wending.

Through a timeless age I wander weary
Towards a golden goal a welcome word would give.
'Pon a palace past the girl sits dreary,
'Til watching worlds wake dreams that I most long to live.

POLITICAL COMMENT

At this point it might be useful to recall an experience G. K. Chesterton recorded in his Autobiography, G.K.C. and several of his friends met at a great Liberal rally. They moved about in the crowd, conversing on topics they thought important. By chance, G. K.C. noticed at the other end of the hall "a bald gentleman with a beard . . . reading something from a manuscript in a low voice."

This fact, however, did not hamper the private discussion in progress — it continued through the course of the evening until the close of the meeting caused the friends to move off in their several directions. It was next morning that the surprise came — Chesterton opened his paper to see in gigantic headlines: "Lord Spencer Unfurled the Banner" — in reference to the "bald gentleman" of the previous evening. It was this which caused him to write "I was finding it difficult to believe in politics; because the reality seemed almost unreal, as compared with the reputation or the report" (op. cit. page 189).

It is the same thing which seems to lie back of the attitude towards politics we have seen and heard about the campus recently—and of which the two editorials of today's Daily (Dec. 12) are an example. We are plagued with the academic outlook on politics. We tend to think of it primarily and almost exclusively in terms of ideas. And this leads us to romantic notions of an heroic struggle between the parties of good and evil to decide the future of civilization — with the god of Progress giving victory eventually to the good. We talk blithely of "fundamental differences" between one party and the next—as if anyone who reflected on the notion for a minute would not discover that our Parliamentary system could not work if there were any fundamental differences within it. It is a combination of unrealistic intellectualism and pre-emptive optimism. This spirit receives full expression in the two editorials I have referred to.

I should like to make it clear, first of all, that I do not speak as a supporter of the Liberal party—which I am not. As to the extreme bad taste in which the editorial on Mr. Pouliot's address was written — it is a subject on which it would be unpleasant to dwell. As to the inconsistency between the insulting, in one breath, of a man who was to McGill a representative of French Canada; and, in the next breath, of spilling forth platitudes on bonnetism—the inconsistency is too marked to need further comment. What I would like to point out is that Mr. Pouliot told us more about politics in one hour than we would have learned in a year's course of lectures on liberal doctrine and the Liberal party program.

We who pride ourselves on knowing all about politics, often know very little about politicians. It is on this point that Mr. Pouliot set us right. He showed us, by his very presence, that politicians are human beings — not abstract ideals. "The House of Commons is a great club"—this was the key to the address. I will only be accused of cynicism if I suggest that our politicians share the nature of common humanity in larger proportion than ideological mania. Politicians work for their living like most other people — and harder than average. The fact that their work consists as much in their ability to secure bulldozers for the farmers of their counties as in deciding the broader issues of national policy is no reason for us to look down on them. If we would only approach the subject of politics from the point of view of the politician rather than that of the doctrinaire we might get a little farther in our analysis.

The doctrinaire approach can only lead to an absurdly subjective outlook — and we may remember that Mr. Pouliot called for an objective treatment of politics. The subjective approach, and its misgivings, is well shown in the second editorial of the day. Discussing Friday night's dance, the question of national unity is raised — we read: "Once upon a time the forefathers of both groups decided that it was a good thing to hate one another. Then religious, economic and social reasons were dragged into the traditional hate so as to give the problem a firm and seemingly indestructible basis." As an analysis of the problem this is simply childish nonsense, as anyone who has studied Canadian, or French-Canadian history knows. But it is clearly explainable on the basis of subjective, doctrinaire thinking — treating politics as wish rather than as fact. It may satisfy our emotions — it can never lead to an understanding of the problem. Do not take this as a categorical condemnation of bonnetism — in support of which this absurd statement was made. In the past it has proved a superficial treatment of the problem, but it is commendable on its own limited ground. But let's not raise this dance to the proportions of a national problem — or no one will have any fun. ROBERT W. COX.

Christmas Issue

The Annual Christmas Issue of The Daily will feature the usual Christmas Short Story contest, with the traditional $5 prize. Stories need not necessarily have a specific Christmas interest. All contributions must be typed, double spacing, one side of the paper only, signed in ink with the author's real name, not exceed 1,500 words in length, and they can be left either in the box in front of the Daily Office or at the Tuck Shop, clearly marked "Feature Editor, Christmas Issue."

All contributions must be handed in before 5 p.m., Monday, Dec. 17.

The issue is largely a Feature department publication, and contributions of prose, poetry, and special articles are solicited. The short stories will be judged by a committee of editors; all students except those on the masthead of The Daily are eligible to submit entries.

The difference between this contest and the one held recently, is that the last contest was a new venture. The Christmas Short Story Contest is an annual event.

The results of the last short story contest will be announced early next week.

"...SO NOW WE'LL HAVE A BANKER IN THE FAMILY!"

"Well, Bob has finally decided! When he's finished school he wants to go to work in a bank. And I'm glad—for a lot of reasons..."

He'll get a thorough training, and can even receive university instruction in banking and economics while he is working. Banking isn't learned in a day, but he'll get lots of help—and every opportunity to move up as he proves himself. The road to the top is wide open, and offers:

SECURITY AND PEACE OF MIND

Social security is a phrase prominent in public discussions these days, but the practice of it is not new. Consider the banks and their employees:

1. Pension Funds, to which, with their employees, banks themselves contribute substantially, make it possible for employees to devote all their business lives to banking, sure of an income for life when they reach the age of retirement.
2. Annual vacations with pay.
3. Ordinary sick leave with pay, and special sick leave arrangements in special cases.
4. Group life insurance contributed to jointly by banks and employees.
5. Good working conditions.
6. Unlimited opportunity for enterprise and advancement.

Banks and their staffs, in co-operation with each other, have made it possible for the latter to enjoy a well-founded sense of permanency and security.

Red Pucksters Travel to Three Rivers for Season Opener

Mentor, Squad Confident Of Victory in Tonight's Tilt with Industrial Team

Final Line-up Unrevealed Yet But Gelineau, HHS Line to Start

Tonight the McGill Senior Hockey squad will make its debut for the '45-'46 season when seventeen of Dave Campbell's proteges will journey to Three Rivers to be the guests of a team in their local industrial loop. The Redmen, who were out in almost full strength at yesterday's workout, were confident of upholding their pre-season build-up. "If we have trouble tomorrow, what will they do to us in the Intercollegiate tussle!" seemed the general consensus of opinion.

Coach Dave Campbell put the aspiring ice golfers through their paces yesterday as both Porteous and Pierson were in from Dawson. Although several lines seemed to push the puck around with clicking facility, the McGill mentor, watching from the sidelines, wouldn't commit himself as to final line-ups.

Jack Gelineau put in his usual sparkling performance in front of the twine, and to all appearance the starry netman of last season's RCAF NDHL entry will be in the goal when the Redmen take the ice tonight, but Curry will also make the trip. On the defence roster are Beck, Bridel, Broderick (honestly no alliteration intended), Gosselin, and Mingie. At recent workouts Gosselin, 173 lb. ex-right defence for Ottawa St. Pats, has been showing ability which promises to make him a stand-out among the league's blue-line boys.

"HHS" LINE
The much publicized "HHS Line" seems almost certain to start tonight, pivoting on Tommy Hale, with brother George bringing up on the left flank, and Sinclair a potential menace in the right slot. Also making the trip are right wingers Pierson, Pitfield, and Allen centre icemen Spiller and O'Connor, and Costigan and Porteous from the left slot.

The team will leave the Union by bus at 4.30 today after eating in the cafeteria. If road conditions forbid bus travel, the Redmen will have to travel by train. No special

Champagne Victorious In Ping Pong Fixture

Speculation as to who will be crowned the Ping Pong "Champion" for this year is reaching fever-pitch with the announcement by the manager that all quarter-final games must be played by this coming Wednesday. The names on the lips of the fans are such smooth players as Raider and the last winner of the tourney Sun Lee.

Added to this select group yesterday afternoon was Eddie Champagne after he had come through with the most one-sided victory of the first round in bombasting M. Cohen with scores of 21-9, 11 and 4. However, such starlets as Garmalse and Climman are expected to give their favoured rivals stiff opposition as they have shown spectacular form of late.

SENIOR CAGERS FACE MAC TONIGHT

Squad to Meet Aggies In Crucial Four-pointer; Intermediates See Action

Both Quintets at Full Strength For Tussles at St. Anne Gym

The McGill senior cage squad travels to St. Anne this afternoon to face the Macdonald senior hoopers in an all-important 4 point tussle. A victory for the Redmen would move them out of a second place tie with the Shipmates and raise them into first place with eight points.

Manager George Schneider wishes to notify the team that they must meet at the Bonaventure Station no later than 5.40 p.m. in order to catch the train.

The senior five are fresh from a closely fought contest in which they edged out the Shipmates 22-19 to move into a second place tie. The squad showed that they are rounding into form and by the time the intercollegiate schedule rolls around McGill are sure to be contenders for the championship.

The regular mainstays of the team played true to form on Wednesday but furthermore it was no

Phys. Ed. Smashed 30-16 by Eng. 2; 3 Games Defaulted

In the one game played yesterday afternoon at the Sir Arthur Currie Gym, out of four scheduled contests, the speedy, high-powered Engineering II quintet defeated the cagers from the School of Phys. Ed. by the score of 30-16.

The Plumbers held a slight edge at half time with a 14-12 score but came back in the second half to make their victory decisive. Paced by Wolfe, who potted 12 points, in a strong offensive game; and Kubina, who played a star role on the defense, the winners had little trouble in smashing the athletic-minded boys. For the Phys. Ed. quintet, Wilkinson was top scorer with eight points.

EXHIBITION

Both the Commerce II squad and the Science III & IV cagers won via the default route, defeating the Dentistry and Architecture teams respectively. So as not to waste their talents, The Commerce II boys played an exhibition tilt against the Science III & IV aggregate, and came out on top by the score of 24-13. Top scorer for the winners was Wolvin with six points and Cherney paced the losers with five.

With the first round of the interclass basketball tournament coming to a close, a better brand of play is expected from those teams continuing in the competition. After the Christmas holidays, a twelve-team schedule will be drawn up, including the two top teams from each section plus another two squads who have shown their willingness to play by their interest in the tournament.

Snooker Tourney Finalists Decided With Upset Game

Davidon, Gunn Victors In Hard-Fought Tilts; Korman, Brossard Out

The whole snooker world at McGill was filled with excitement yesterday as two series of games took place to decide the participants in the final round. George Davidon, in the early part of the afternoon, increased the tumult as he showed championship form to sweep through with two clean victories over Claude Brossard. Pushing up from a tie of 1-1 in games played on Wednesday, George, hot from Basketball laurels, really started cooking with gas, in running long strings of balls off the table to give him substantial 15 and 40 point leads at the finale of the first and second tilts respectively.

GUNN WINS

To decide the other finalist, W. Korman, second seeded player, and Gunn, the next seeded man on the list, matched their skill with the cue over the green-topped table towards the waning hours of daylight. Spectators were left awestruck over the sparkling play of Gunn and disappointed in the failure of Korman to register a single victory. Gunn got himself into high gear after scraping through a black-ball victory in the first tussle and ended up with around 35 points in the concluding frame.

A record crowd is expected to turn out to witness the finals between these two fine exponents of this popular indoor sport, Davidon and Gunn.

KEN HOYLE

iced that Pete Finlay turned in a very strong game at guard which will help Coach Davies no end.

As the team stands now, Coach Davies has relied mostly on Greenburg, Davidson, Roth, and Goodwin for the scoring punch while Ken Hoyle has been a tower of strength on the defensive.

INTERMEDIATES PLAY

The intermediate team will also see action this weekend when they hook up with the Macdonald Aggies at St. Anne on Saturday afternoon at 3 p.m. Coach Rutherford's charges have been going great guns have dropped only their initial contest to the powerful five from Dawson College. The Aggies on the other hand have yet to garner a win and have been easy pickings for the rest of the teams in the loop.

It has been announced that both the Senior and Intermediate team pictures will be taken at Monday's practice which starts at five o'clock.

Intramural Athletics Reach High Gear As Volleyball and Basketball Continue

Commerce, Science Arts & Engineering See Action Today

Although the interfaculty volleyball league got off to a somewhat dismal start last Monday with two defaulted games, there will be action-a-plenty in the main gym this afternoon when the old rivalry, of the "spike" enthusiasts from Commerce and Engineering, is renewed in one of four scheduled contests.

The more ardent fans will remember that it was the Commerce squad who were defeated by Macdonald in the semi-finals last year; but received some consolation when the green and gold decisively trounced the Engineering I sextet to cop the Intramural laurels. Due to the increase in the enrollment Commerce has three teams entered this year and it is the Commerce II aggregate which will take the floor today against the Engineering II squad.

In another game scheduled to take place at 5.15 p.m. between Med. I and Com. III & IV, the Med. team has announced that the match will be postponed to a future date due to the heavy burden of exams at the present time. Another squad of future interns, the Med. II & III sextet, have withdrawn from the schedule; and will be replaced by a team of Phys. Ed. Boys. However, the tilt which the Med. II & III aggregate were supposed to have played against Dentistry, will not be played by the new replacement from the School of Physical Education until a later date, to be announced.

The schedule for tonight is as follows:

5.15: Eng. II vs. Com. II.
5.15: Arts III & IV vs. Eng. III.
5.45: Arts II vs. Science III & IV.
5.45: Eng. IV vs. Grads.

Men-Women Fencers Troupe Musketeers

McGill fencers had to produce their very best form yesterday evening to cop a double victory over their clever opponents in the club called the Musketeers. Excitement ran high during the tourney as the issue was in doubt until the very end.

The girls from McGill defeated their French Canadian rivals after some spirited interchanges. Shining for the Red and White were Betty Lenny and June Organ. The captains of the two teams, Andy Esfakis McGill and Bob Dejarlais of the Musketeers, proved to be the stars of the men's encounters. Fernando Orino also showed brilliant form for the McGill team.

Weightlifters Club Triples Members

Bodybuilders Prepare For Intramural Meet Under Coach Walker

With their enrollment more than tripled, some eighty body-builders of the weight training club are engaged in body development, and many have gained very satisfactory results. Those who have shown most progress are M. Oliver, J. King, M. McKammon, Burnez, J. Leboff, and I. Stalker.

Most of the members had never seen a barbell before coming to McGill, and many were sceptical of the value of this sort of training, but after a few weeks of exercising under the experienced eye of Charlie Walker, one of Canada's outstanding coaches their doubts as to the merits of weight training vanished. Some gained two to three inches on their chests after a month's training.

BEGINNERS CLASS

There is still room in the beginners' classes on Wednesdays and Saturdays at 5.15 and 2.30 respectively for any person desiring strength, health and pleasing symmetry.

There is to be an intramural weightlifting competition in February, and letters will be given to individual winners in each weight class. Those interested in participating in this contest should contact Martin Franklin, manager.

Dawson-Georgian Tilt To Be Postponed

The game which was scheduled to have been played at Dawson tonight between Dawson Intermediate A Basketball team and Sir George Williams College has been postponed indefinitely because of a social function at Sir George.

The Dawsonites still remain undefeated due to the victory over the U. of M. squad by a score of 28-19 at the Currie Gym, Wednesday night. The Georgians have not yet registered a victory.

Meanwhile the Dawson Intermediate B cagers under Tig Chaloner are shaping up after defeating Steve Armstrong's Baron Byng Senior A five in their initial contest, 44-23, on Wednesday night.

The squad will again see action in an exhibition to take place at Dawson on Tuesday night. The Westmount High Senior A squad under Lou Davies will furnish the opposition.

Leafs Down Canucks 4-3 in Close Contest

A million surprises took place on Forum ice last night as Montreal Canadiens suffered their defeat of a regular scheduled game at home in two years. The team that defeated the league leading Habits was the cellar dwelling Maple Leafs from the Queen City.

The Stanley Cup owners came from behind a two goal deficit in the second period to enter the final frame with a one counter lead. Fleet of "Toe" Blake scampered into to put the disk behind Uleers McCool only in vain as Billy Taylor broke away for his second tally a few minutes later to sew up the game.

Moral Stricken American U's Deemphasize Sport Activities

New York, N.Y. — (Special to the Daily) — In a meeting run off recently a group of American Universities banded together in the Ivy League and agreed to the deemphasis of scholarships for athletic prowess. Included in the list were Yale, Harvard, Princeton, Brown, Pennsylvania, Dartmouth, Columbia, Cornell.

EIGHT COLLEGES BAND

Here are the outstanding provisions of the Eastern Conference or Ivy League agreement, which is without parallel in the long sequence of intercollegiate sports movements on the Atlantic Seaboard since the Football Association was formed in 1873 and which becomes effective at the close of the current grid season:

(1) Athletic scholarships barred, and athletes may not be employed in their colleges at more than the normal rate of pay. The Old Grad is tossed right out the window.

(2) Bowl games or other post-season football contests are barred. So are other games involving extended absences. Later on, the length of the football playing season, extent of spring practice and the starting date of fall practice, as well as scouting, operating budgets, ticket prices and off-campus activities of coaches, will come in for regulation.

(3) Prewar eligibility rules, keeping freshmen off varsity teams, restricting intercollegiate eligibility to three seasons, and demanding a year's residence before a transfer student may represent the college, will become effective. The NCAA has refused to tackle this problem. (4) Each institution has agreed to cooperate through a committee on administration and a committee on Eligibility. Rulings on eligibility will be settled by a majority vote.

(5) The eight members are free to arrange their own schedules and are not forced to meet each other. Schedules are to be made only two years ahead.

(6) The life of the agreement is indeterminate, amendments require unanimous vote, and any college seeking to withdraw must give one year's notice.
